

HUMAN RESOURCES

Resignation & Exit Policy

Purpose

This policy governs the process for an employee's voluntary resignation and the exit procedures to be followed. A smooth offboarding ensures continuity of work and a positive experience for the departing employee.

Notice Period

All employees must serve a notice period as mentioned in their employment contract. The standard notice period is:

- Probation: 2 weeks
- Post-confirmation (0-1 year): 1 month
- Post-confirmation (1+ years): 2 months

Early relieving may be granted based on project requirements and management discretion.

Resignation Process

1. Employee submits a formal resignation letter to their direct manager and HR via email.
2. HR acknowledges the resignation within 2 working days.
3. Last working day is calculated based on notice period.
4. Exit interview is scheduled with HR.

Notice Period Buyout

Employees may request a notice period buyout. The company may waive the remaining notice period on receiving the buyout amount equivalent to the basic salary for the remaining days. This is subject to management approval.

Knowledge Transfer

Departing employees must complete a structured knowledge transfer to their replacement or team. This includes documentation, handover of ongoing projects, and access transfers.

Asset Return

All company assets including laptops, access cards, and any company-owned equipment must be returned before the last working day. Full and final settlement will be processed only after asset clearance.

Full & Final Settlement

Full and final settlement including outstanding salary, earned leave encashment, and any other dues will be processed within 30 days of the last working day, subject to clearance from IT, finance, and management.

Non-Disparagement

Employees are expected to maintain confidentiality and not disparage the company, its products, employees, or clients after departure. The NDA signed at the time of joining remains in force.

Rehire Eligibility

Employees who leave on good terms are eligible for rehire. Employees terminated for cause are generally not eligible for rehire.